Open Air Skansen museum and Aquaria

Skansen is a well-known open-air museum at Djurgården island, where you can see Sweden in the nutshell.

Here you can see the miniature town and villages of XVII – XIX centuries, the buildings of which were transferred here from different parts of Sweden. You will be able to see life and crafts of the time – like the traditional bakery where famous Swedish knackebröd is made or glass workshop. Skansen also offers to its guests a zoo, restaurants of Swedish cuisine, museum Aquaria and great views over Stockholm.

Skansen-Aquaria

Welcome to one of the most unusual museums - Skansen Aquaria. Here you will find many types of fish and coral reefs, monkeys, lizards, snakes, spiders, crocodiles, parrots, turtles, scorpions and black rats, lemurs, sloths and many other animals. In a pond of the museum you will see huge sharks, which you even be able to pat on the backs!

In April, Aquaria has opened a new exhibition, which consists of all kinds of reptiles: salamanders, the most beautiful frogs of different species, spider Imze and boa Snoddas are waiting for you!
